ABOUT THE BOOK:

The Idea Man follows the fantastical adventures of Larry Plum and his best friend, Boy, who encounter an eccentric cast of characters such as Chef Walter Bigfoot, Zeus Harrison, Wolfgang Bug, and even Buddha himself. From former U.S. Congressman Ed Case: "In this age of crushing conformity and slippery values, Josh Green's surprising and refreshing Larry Plum delivers us all, young and old, a wonderful and unique reminder of eternal life lessons and of the sheer power of the fully freed and creative mind." From Patricia Wood, bestselling author of the novel Lottery, "The Idea Man is a fun, fun, read. Plum and Boy are a couple of endearing characters that you will wish you knew. Like all good books, I didn't want it to end." From Robert Barclay, author of Melal: A Novel of the Pacific and the story collection Hawaii Smiles: "Like the best people I know, these characters are full of life and imagination, fully welcome in the lives of my children."

ABOUT THE AUTHOR:

Josh Green is an Emergency Room Physician on the Big Island of Hawai'i. He is also a member of the Hawai'i State Senate, where he serves as the Vice-chairman of the Health Committee and provides leadership as Hawaii's Voice for Healthcare. He and his wife Jaime are the proud parents of Maia. This is his first book.
